A NEW JERSEY FISH FARM

A HARPER'S WEEKLY.

THE TROUT FISH-POULDS.

The ponds at present contain about seven hundred adult trout, with a few hatchled during the winter of 1886-87 by Mrs. Treasurer Nestor, with some eggs which were bought from a dealer in fish, and are now six months old. All the fish in the pond are of the "General Grant," which is a very hardy and vigorous variety. The pond is situated on a hill overlooking the reservoir, and is protected on all sides by high banks.

A FISH FARM IN NEW JERSEY. - [OPINION BY PROFESSOR R. DAVIS.]

The Trout, At various Ages.

The trout is now being prepared for the reception of the twenty thousand young trout, hatched at Troubles during the past winter, the middle one is devoted to trout of eight inches and under, while in the third, the largest, the larger fish, many of them of a size calculated to cause a break in the "General Grant" to be submitted to the fresh water Commission. The bottom of the river is filled with rocks, which have been placed and are of such a character as to make a sort of barrier and prevent the fish from escaping. The show is allowed to approach the lake, but it is not allowed to enter it.

The race is closed, the race being covered with a straining net, which is placed a layer of fine gravel, but the same is not placed in the vicinity.

THE TROUBLES, BARTHELMUR.

The fish are then taken and held in the lake, the river being divided into two parts, one for young fish, and the other for adult fish. The race is then opened, and the fish are allowed to enter the lake.

THE HATCHERY-HOUSE.

The young trout are fed with meal, and the adult trout with finely sifted flour. During the winter, the young trout are fed with meal, and the adult trout with finely sifted flour. During the summer, the young trout are fed with meal, and the adult trout with finely sifted flour.
